

STEP by STEP Guide for completing SG1 training

From: Paddy Gleeson CWO DLSPFC

Date: 20th November 2024

Introduction:

Coaches and volunteers are not expected to be safeguarding experts, but rather to know how to implement best practice and how to respond to a concern.

The required SG1 training is based on Sport Ireland and Sport Northern Ireland guidance documents and related legislation. On completion of all 3 safeguarding modules those working with age-grade players will be able to create a player-centred environment, implement best practice, identify concerns and know how to respond appropriately to those concerns.

Once you have completed the safeguarding award, support is available on an ongoing basis to maintain safeguarding standards through your Club Welfare Officer and your provincial Spirit of Rugby Officer.

In order to achieve SG1 you must complete:

Module 1 & Module 2 on line – will take approximately 15 minutes each

SG1 Safeguarding Module

Awarded on successful completion of the Safeguarding Module on the IRFU Safeguarding Course

Course Name:

IRFU Safeguarding Course (SG1)

SG1 Role of the Coach Module

IRFU Safeguarding Course (SG1) (Leinster)

The IRFU is committed to the enjoyment of rugby by young people and seeks to promote, create and maintain safe environments for Age Grade Players.

This IRFU Safeguarding training assists those involved with Age-grade rugby to be aware of components of the safeguarding policy and have knowledge of how to raise a concern in relation to risk of harm.

Coaches and volunteers are not expected to be safeguarding experts, but rather to know how to implement best practice and how to respond to a concern. As such, coaches and volunteers with age grade teams must complete safeguarding training by undertaking 2 online modules and attending a face-to-face training session with the Spirit of Rugby Officers.

The training is based on Sport Ireland and Sport Northern Ireland guidance documents and related legislation. On completion of all 3 safeguarding modules those working with age-grade players will be able to create a player-centred environment, implement best practice, identify concerns and know how to respond appropriately to those concerns.

Once you have completed the safeguarding award, support is available on an ongoing basis to maintain safeguarding standards. Contact your Club Welfare Officer and your provincial Spirit of Rugby Officer.
